GCI improvements to help city and DOR

Improvements planned at Glades Correctional Institution, including a $1.2 million food processing plant, and pre-treatment facilities for GCI sewer could mean good news in more ways than one.

GCI Superintendent Robert Turner said Tuesday the state is now receiving from various companies vying for the right to build the new plant, which will include plans for the pre-treatment sewer facility.

The facility is apparently the result of discussion which goes back several years between the facility and the City of Belle Glade. It is supposed to partially treat waste water from the canning facility, a soap goods plant at the institution and waste from the GCI slaughter house.

The food processing plant, Turner said, is expected to be able to produce 400,000 number ten cans of vegetables per year, along with the ability to quick freeze food items.

The new plant will replace a canning plant which was shut down in 1974, Turner said, because the machinery was aging and the plant could no longer pass state health requirements.

"We will be processing food grown at the institution," he said, "along with some grown at other institutions and some bought commercially when we need the vegetables to keep the plant running."

Turner said GCI will be growing about 14 different vegetables which will go through the plant, along with the orange and grapefruit juice already coming from GCI groves.

The plant is part of an overall plan, he said, to make GCI the food distributor for all the small state institutions in South Florida, a plant which includes the "fabrication" as well as slaughter of hogs and cows.

"Until now," he said, "we've only sold beef and pork by the carcass. Under the new setup, we'll be fabricating the meat for the other institutions."

Turner said food of all types will be processed or bought in bulk by GCI and GCI trucks would then transport it to the other small institutions in South Florida for consumption.

Another facet of the overall plan is an impending land swap between the Florida Internal Improvement Fund "IIF" and Puhokos Produce, Inc. (PPI) which could result in the construction of a brand new institution in Hendry County.

That land swap involves a tradeoff between the state and PPI with PPI inheriting four sections of land near 20 Mile Bend which is now state-owned and the state getting six sections of land near Immokalee.

There are 640 acres to a section of land.

Should negotiations be completed, Turner said the proposed Hendry County institution would house some 450 inmates. If the talks break down, those inmates would come to GCI, boosting the total here to 1,250.

Turner said there are now 800 inmates in the local institution at present. GCI was originally intended to house 550 in the dormitories now available. He said the rise in prison population has cut the amount of floor space per inmate from 55 to 37 square feet.

"This will also mean," Turner said, "that we'll need to add another five supervisory employees for the food processing plant and another nine farming supervisors. He said there are not current plans for full-scale production of frozen food.

Turner pointed out that the plant will mean "a substantial savings to the taxpayers" since the Department of Offender Rehabilitation can produce food much cheaper than by buying it commercially. "The food cost at GCI, for instance," he said, "is $1.40 per day per man."

One sidelight is that the label used for years on items produced by the DOR, including items ranging from canned food to janitorial supplies to tobacco, has been DC, standing for the old name of the state Division of Corrections.

Turner said that label hasn't been changed, although he expects a change will come sometime in the future because of the new name.

Belle Glade Mayor William Grear said he had recently been informed of the institution's expansion plans, including the pre-treatment facility.

"This will be all in our favor if it goes through," Grear said. "A pre-treatment facility is definitely out there and I think this is a sign they're aware of the problem and are going to do something."

New idea; new home

Maner Godfrey of 537 S.W. Ninth St. received a first look Thursday at his new home, which will be installed next week on the site of his present home. Godfrey will be getting the home as part of a revolutionary new program being conducted by the Belle Glade Community Development Program.

Program director, George Gartner (right) and program Housing Rehabilitation Counselor Gladys

Ganzy (left) look on. The home was built by Perry Homes in North Palm Beach and will be delivered to the site in two sections. Gartner said Tuesday the state is now receiving from various companies vying for the right to build the new plant, which will include plans for the pre-treatment sewer facility.

Pay, equipment are given as major complaints

If the City of Belle Glade winds up with a firefighters union, and that is a real possibility, it can be traced back to a breakdown in communications according to the president of that union.

Warner Street, who has been elected president of International Firefighters Association Local 2476, said members of the fire department decided to organize after attempts reaching back ten years to get something done about problems.

Street said the firefighters had complained to former City Manager William Mallory two years ago about several items and had received some relief, "but not enough."

Street said the major complaints the firemen now have are their pay, their equipment and the need for more personnel.

Street said the beginning pay for a Belle Glade firefighter is $2.55 an hour, which amounts to $514.60 per month. He said the firefighters are paid every two weeks for 96 hours one pay period and 120 hours the next.

To receive that pay, the firefighters are divided into three shifts and work 24 hours on and 48 hours off. There has been some discussion about the possibility of changing that to eight hours on and 16 hours off. Street said that would mean that city would have to hire 40 per cent more personnel to do the same job.

Another complaint deals with fringe benefits. Street said other city employees can accumulate one eight-hour day per month in sick pay but since the firefighters work 24-hour shifts, they're required to work three months to build back a day's sick leave.

Related to the pay, Street said the Belle Glade department needs more personnel. He said there should be four men per shift but there is now three men on two of the shifts and four on the remaining shift.

Still another area of dissatisfaction, Street said, is in the equipment provided by the city. He said the helmets in use by the department don't meet the new standards set by the National Bureau of Standards for protective headgear for firefighters and the bunker coats don't have the needed rating for inflammability.

"As we understand it," he said, "the flame-retardant

Don Tanner qualifies in SB

Donald E. Tanner of 264 S.E. 2nd St. in South Bay has qualified for reelection to the South Bay City Commission in Group 2.

Tanner, age 38, is a foreman at South Bay Growers in the celery operation and is completing his first two-year term on the commission. He is a native of the Glades and a long-time resident of South Bay.

9 drug arrests made

A total of nine Belle Glade residents were arrested over the last week as the result of a drug investigation performed over the past several weeks by an undercover agent who bought heroin and cocaine from the persons involved.

Belle Glade Sheriff's Office detachment head Capt. Claude Tindall said virtually all the work was done by officers from the coast, until the actual arrests were begun a week ago tonight.

Helping make the arrests were Glades detachment deputies and Belle Glade Police Officers. A total of eight suspects were arrested that Thursday, most of them charged with possession and sale of hard drugs. A ninth suspect was arrested Saturday by Belle Glade Police Sgt. Louis Lowery. The last arrest made was of Joe Franklin Kimes, 41, of the Waldessa Motel in Belle Glade. He was charged with possession of heroin and bond was set at $10,000.

Arrested Thursday were Randolph Atkins Jr., 33, of 540 S.W. Eighth St.; Calvin Gibbons, 30, of 801 S.W. Ave. C; Betty Jean Jones, 21, of 623 S.W. Ave. B; Willy Charles Miles, 25, of 416 S.W. Ave. 8 Place; Dorothy Mae Oliver, 23, address unknown; Dennis Robinson, 25, address unknown; Adele L. Williams, 20, of 685 S.W. Fifth St. and Henry Williams, 33, of 617 S.W. Ave. C.

Tindall said the arrests capped a three-week investigation.

It's time to punt

Registration for the 1976 Punt, Pass & Kick competition will begin Friday at Watson Ford on Airport Road according to Watson salesman Clarence Throop, who is coordinating the Belle Glade competition again this year.

Throop said the Belle Glade competition will be held Sept. 11 in the field across the Avenue L from the dealership and, as usual, competition will be open to all comers from ages 8 through 13.

"We're looking forward to a big local PP&K competition in Belle Glade," he said. "We hope all the youngsters in the 8 to 13 age bracket in this area will come in to register and take part."

Throop pointed out that PP&K, throughout its six levels of competition, is free of charge, and that youngsters need only have a parent or guardian accompany them to the agency to register.

"Our competition here will have first, second and third place trophies for contestants in each of the six age groups, or 18 trophies in all," Throop said. "Increasing each entrant's chance of winning is the fact that youngsters compete only against others in their own age group.

"Of course there is no

What's up, Doc?

A lot is up at Glades Central these days, what with the principal, Mrs. Effie Grear (left) earning her doctor's degree and a new assistant principal (Norman Shearer) showing up to take some of the load off Dr. Grear's shoulders. Dr. Grear said she earned her degree at Florida International University in educational administration. Shearer, who comes from John I. Leonard High School, will be in charge of student activities.

Skipper Bowles qualifies

Competition was assured in both races of the Sept. 14 Belle Glade City election Monday morning when E. R. "Skipper" Bowles, 29, of 500 N.E. First St. qualified to run in Group One against incumbent Commissioner Tom Altman. Bowles is an employee with L. G. DeWitt Truck Brokers and an active member of the Lions Club. He has never sought political office before and said a part of his platform is to provide a year-round city recreation program. He is shown being sworn in as a candidate by City Clerk June Boglioli.

"IT FOLLOWED ME HOME—CAN I KEEP IT?..."

Pot Likker

by R-D Santee

The tennis bug bit me last week. However, it took me but one effort at the game to overcome the urge to participate in such foolishness.

I became interested in the game while strolling by the tennis courts one day. A beautiful young thing in abbreviated attire would swat the ball a few times and call across to her opponent "love" this and "love" that.

Now, any game one can play and have someone of that young lady's ilk call you "love" cannot be all bad. So I repaired to a sporting goods store and purchased the necessary equipment for participation in the game.

The following day I stood at the court awaiting the arrival of a beautiful young lady that I could engage in a game and have her cry "love" at me.

As I stood there, several men and a few women (the latter built something like an early model Studebaker) invited me to play a few "sets".

My response was honest and designed to thwart any hopes they may have had of engaging my participation. I told them I was a touring professional who held the world record for the most "love" scored in a match and had single handedly struck out Red Grange, the greatest professional of them all, in a winner take all duel in Billings, Montana last fall.

They left me alone. Finally, a young lady strolled up to me and asked if I would "volley" with her.

My heart nearly pounded out of my chest cavity! I had been asked to "volley" with a beautiful woman by the woman herself!

"Here?" I asked.

"Yes," she said.

"Propriety dictates a less conspicuous setting," I answered.

She walked out onto the court and swatted the ball across the net to me. I swung at it and connected. It sailed over the fence behind her. A home run! I strutted around the court. After that, every ball that came my way I would promptly knock over the fence. Why, if I kept this up I would break Babe Ruth's record!

The lady was exasperated and somewhat tired from chasing the balls. "Don't you think" she suggested "you could do better if you took your racket out of the press?"

I removed the press and promptly hit one twice as far as any previous. I was great!

After twenty more shots over the fence the lady glared across the net and shouted "I've had it! I quit! You can't keep a ball in the court!" She stalked off.

"Wait!" I cried "I'll let you knock some over the fence if you like."

"No way!" she retorted storming off the court.

"What about 'love'?" I asked. "You're lucky I don't call the cops on that. She screamed she threw her racket at me. I ducked. But a fellow in the adjoining court was not so lucky. I waited until the ambulance had left then went home to nurse my wounded pride."

It is a sad state of affairs to be a gifted athlete and yet not get the admiration your athletic prowess deserves.

Oh well, I have learned to live with it.

That's odd....

Odd how the same kind of agreement means different things when it's involving different people.

A good example of that was brought to our attention this week when Mayor William Grear said it was the case with a proposed engineering agreement with a firm which may become the city's consulting engineers.

Hizoner pointed out that when City Attorney John Baker was having a disagreement with Post, Buckley and Jernigan, before moving on to Barker, Osha and Anderson, a contract modeled on the one with the city's former engineers was a good one to offer.

That contract wasn't agreed upon by Post, Buckley and Jernigan before they turned it down, the city commission unanimously agreed it was a good one.

Now, Grear said, the same model contract is being offered by the city to Barker, Osha and Anderson and at least one city commissioner doesn't think it's a good one.

"Why," the mayor wanted to know, "should that be? I can't figure it out."

Good question.

Of course there is the possibility there must be some special reason that commissioner might want Post, Buckley and Jernigan. We mustn't make some reason other than the obvious one of getting the best engineers possible for the city at the least cost.

But what could it be?

Someone suggested a personal interest but we couldn't go along with that. Our city commissioners wouldn't do something like that.

Still, there must be a reason...and we can only wonder what it is.

AMERICA'S HERITAGE

WASHINGTON AT VALLEY FORGE

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

One thing I've always liked about being a Florida cracker has been the intimate relationship everyone in the Sunshine State has with cockroaches.

Now, a lot of people don't like the cucaracha and they think that's one of the worst things about Florida, but that's a short term view.

As a card-carrying member of Hate, Inc., though, I see the value of the little critters and there is a lot to hate.

Matter of fact, I found another reason to detest the pest just a couple of weeks ago when the alternator died in the maroon machine, taking the battery along with it to the great junkyard in the sky.

Accordin' to a guy who should know, cockroaches make the biggest single reason alternators go on the fritz in Florida. Seems they chow down on the insulation on the windings and when they have a leg stretched back to the body of the alternator, you got instant crispy critter.

And when you figure that for some strange quirk of fried cockroaches are perfect conductors, that makes it hard on alternators.

And Bob Whidden out at Intercoastal Auto Electric says he's counted as many as 21 cockroach carcasses grounding out alternators he's rebuilt.

He also told me that once the original alternator burns out, the chances of a rebuilt one lasting any time at all ain't no good, which really helped make my day since I'd just had a rebuilt one installed in my bomb.

Like, that was the second one I'd had put in the car...and these integrated alternators, in case you haven't had the pleasure, ain't cheap except in relation to each other...and even then they're just expensive, expensive and expensive.

All of which is getting pretty far off the subject of Bugs We Hate.

Just last week, I was over at a friend's house and all of a sudden, roaches were all over the place. Big, flying, nasty, stinking filthy, crunchy roaches. Coming out of the woodwork, flying, crawling, slithering.

It was enough, to put it delicately, to gag a maggot.

Anyway, the way those critters were swarming, a couple of us got the idea they'd been scared out of hiding and we got to wondering what would scare a roach.

What eats roaches anyway? Heck, we didn't know, so we went right to the source at hand and found in a pretty widely known encyclopedia that men have eaten roaches.

Yeah, fry 'em up good in garlic and they're supposed to be good for everything from post-nasal drip to lumbago and gout.

And they crunch when you bite into them.

Brrr, gives me the willies just thinking about it. Oh, well, at least they aren't Mexican kissing bugs.

Say, er-uh, what's a Mexican Kissing Bug? Well, Junior, it looks like an overgrown cucaracha and they're a kind of bedbug that comes out at night and chows down on your lips.

Lovely creatures. And you thought we had it bad. It's almost enough to put some credence into the question I heard once about "If God loved us, why'd he put cockroaches and flies with us?"

Course there's always the old bromide that they teach us humility. After all, if something as simple as a cockroach or a fly can survive for millions of years, knowing that every manjack who ever lived killed as many as he could, that oughta be enough to teach humility.

I think I'm going to put some D-Con in my alternator tonight though.

More than candy

It was like taking candy from a baby...but it meant more than candy and it was more than one baby.

When burglars broke into the Wee Care Center Friday night and made off with several pieces of office equipment and a couple of television sets, they put a real hurting on a necessary project serving a lot of Belle Glade people who can't serve themselves.

Wee care, for those who don't know, is a child care center funded by personal donations and matching federal funds which serves working mothers who can't afford the entire price of hiring babysitters.

It actually goes a long way past a baby-sitting service but the key is that it serves mothers who are trying to pay their own way by working in today's society...but who can't afford the entire price.

But like any project funded even in part by federal funds there's a ream of paperwork to be completed every day.

And without the adding machine, typewriter and desk-top computer the chances of plowing through that red tape aren't too great.

The televisions and the electric fan may not be absolutely essential but they'd be nice to have back too.

Of course, the community could sit back and wait for remorse to stab the burglars but that isn't likely to happen. Come on, Belle Glade, it hurts to donate and then have that gift robbed but this is

Q. My boss tells me that a good rule of thumb to use if I want to figure out the amount of life insurance I should carry is that it should be a minimum of four to five times my annual income. Is that right?

A. Not always. It certainly is the quickest method but it does not always give you the right answer. In your letter you did not mention your age or family situation so it is hard to be specific. The fact is, no two families have exactly the same needs. Five times annual income may be too much for an older couple with a stack of gift-edge bonds and too little for a young husband with four children, a

ALL ABOARD! THE SIMON TRAIN

Country and bluesgrass fans were entertained this past Sunday at Lion Country by three fine groups in ninety-five degree temperature. The groups were Jim Hartley backed by Don Jarrell's "Sun Country" from Miami. The "New Heartbreak Mountain Boys" of Hollywood and "Phoenix" of West Palm Beach.

Bill Martin of Lion Country stated, "This is our first venture and naturally we didn't anticipate every detail. We are going to have another festival; however, due to the nearly unbearable heat of this past weekend all future festivals will be during fall and/or spring."

The setting was graceful as a newly constructed stage finished just one day prior to the event, was strategically positioned in a meadow surrounded by trees and bamboo style fences.

Sound systems are the most important priority at any musical event, especially an outdoor setting as there is such a large area to cover. Pearson Audio of Palm Beach handled the public address and sound mixing very well.

Alan Pearson and Clinton Smith of the organization noted, while working the Indian festival, that the on-stage monitors were used to hear the highs and lows in order for the performers to hear the highs and close harmony better.

Low and behold six brand new monitors were part of the system used at Lion Country. It is great that a company is willing to remove profits and update their equipment so as to do the best job possible for a client.

Closer to home the Lady Elks of Belle Glade will have a social Sunday for their members and guests only. At press time it isn't official. However, The Southern Express will probably furnish the entertainment as they performed during the LOPES last social and was well received.

Mrs. Virginia Williams said, "Everyone had such a wonderful time as David Lowman and The Southern Express played such a wide variety of music. We really liked the vocals and that man on the steel guitar (Larry Thacker) can certainly play well."

Palmbe's own Mel Tillis is doing very well with his latest release as an MCA artist entitled, "Love Revival." The tune is an up-tempo song at number eight on the CASHBOX chart and number five on BILLBOARD charts. The

OLD ORDER HAS NEW WAYS

Automated Abbey, The Cistercian monks of Caldey Abbey, located on Caldey Island, southwest of Wales, use a Burroughs business mini-computer to handle the computation of payroll, value added tax, inventory control and other tasks associated with running various business enterprises at the monastery. The abbey has a 600-acre dairy farm including 10 head of Jersey cows. The monks also operate an apothecary, perfumery and confectionery. Totalled, these enterprises generate almost $250,000 in revenue annually. Couple the business enterprises with the 15 daily religious services, for which all commercial activities cease, and one can see the need for the time saved by the business mini-computer.

Teen Elks to meet tonight

Members of the Teen Elks will be meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight for a regular activity period.

The meetings, which take place at Elks Lodge 1716 on Southeast Avenue E, include ping pong, pool and playing music on the juke box.

NEWS OF TRAVEL

ISRAEL PRIME MINISTER STRESSES TOURISM

Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, seated, and Israel Minister of Tourism Moshe Kol recently spoke at a specially convened North American Conference on Israel Tourism, in New York.

The Conference, which was attended by more than 250 religious and lay leaders from throughout the United States and Canada, showed the high priority the Israel Government places on tourism from the United States.

as a means of fostering US-Israel understanding.

According to Israel (Zurriel), Israel Commissioner for Tourism for North America, tourism is Israel's number one foreign currency earner and as such is vital to the economy.

In recent years, Israel, with such attractions as Jerusalem, Bethlehem, and the Galilee has become a major travel destination for U.S. tourists.

Getting off scot-free has nothing to do with Scotland. It comes from the old English word scot meaning a municipal tax. Getting off scot-free is tax evasion.

CBers caught

A Federal Communications Commission (FCC) official said Monday that about 50 Orlando-area Citizens Band radio operators have been found operating in violation of FCC rules.

J. L. Anderson, supervisor of special enforcement in the FCC's southeast regional office in Powder Springs, Ga., said enforcement officials in Orlando last week found violations ranging from operating with illegally overpowered equipment to operating without a license. Operating without a license can bring a fine of up to $10,000 and a year in jail, while operators of licensed stations can be fined between $50 and $500 for violating FCC rules.

Anderson said violators who were caught by FCC enforcement officials will receive mailed violation notices in about two weeks.

Man kicks in door, arrested for burglary

A Belle Glade man was arrested early Monday morning when he smashed in the door of an apartment and began beating one of the occupants.

Patrolman Ronald Shunk reported he arrested Joe Leonard Jordan, 25, of the 800 block of Southwest Avenue C, charging him with burglary and aggravated assault. Shunk answered the call at the apartment of Johnnie Mae Brown, 20, of 544 S.W. 31st St., number 7. He said Mr. Brown told him she and Eddie Lee Scott, 31, of 612 S.W. Ave. E, number 8 were in the apartment when Jordan kicked in the door of the apartment and began striking Scott about the head with a stick. Shunk reported he found a broken broom on the floor of the apartment, apparently the weapon used in the beating.

Cans bring coins

Citizens of the Belle Glade area received $1,143.50 from Reynolds Aluminum Recycling last month for bringing 9,570 pounds of aluminum to the mobile aluminum recycling unit.

The August schedule for the unit, located at City Park, 500 W. Canal St., will be every Thursday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and the public will receive 15 cents a pound for their aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum.

Dave Vardell, Reynolds District Manager for aluminum recycling, said, "Families that keep a separate container for used household aluminum in their kitchens will be amazed how quickly they can accumulate recyclable aluminum."

"When you empty aluminum beverage cans or discard aluminum foil or frozen food trays, you need merely lose the rinsed aluminum items like these in their special container and you're ready to redeem them for 15 cents a pound," added Vardell.

GOLD COAST GARDENER

This time of year we are experiencing a buildup of a very common pest in our homes, but it is one that people do not usually like to talk about. The pest I am referring to is the cockroach. Here, in our area we have ideal conditions for development of these insects and they can be found in even the best kept homes.

There are several varieties of cockroaches and these vary in size from 5/8 of an inch to almost two inches. The German cockroach and the large palmetto bug are the ones which are found most frequently.

The cockroach goes through its development in three stages. The eggs are deposited in three groups in a leathery case or capsule which is usually dropped or glued to some surface by the female. These capsules may contain from 20 to 48 eggs.

The eggs hatch into nymphs which have no wings but look very similar to the adult roach. The period of development from egg to the adult may be from a few months to almost a year.

Roaches generally hide in dark, sheltered areas during the day and come out and feed at night. In the home look for these around the kitchen sink and drain board area, in or around cabinets and drawers, and around windows and doorframes. The hard to control German cockroach is usually found only in the kitchen and bathroom.

To prevent infestations from cockroaches, inspect all baskets, bags or boxes of food, laundry or other such materials brought into the home. Inspect the outside of your home and patch up any openings around pipes, passing through walls as well as spaces around windows and doors.

Sanitation is also very important. If their food supply is removed this will very effectively reduce the roach population. Store food in air-tight containers and avoid spilling food materials such as flour and cereals in cupboards or pantry shelves. Sweep up any crumbs or bits of food from the floors of the kitchen of dining area and put all table scraps and other waste materials in tightly covered garbage cans. Also, do not leave any food on tables or kitchen shelves overnight.

If you use water to use insecticides to combat the pests it is important that you use the most effective material and that you use it in the proper manner according to label directions. Be sure that sprays that have to be mixed with water are used the same way; otherwise some types may lose their effectiveness.

There are many types of baits that are available but you will not get as fast a control with these as with sprays or dusts. Some of the more effective chemicals that are recommended for use against roaches include the following:

(1) Baygon: 1% oil solution; controls German cockroaches as well as other kinds.

(2) Chlordane: 2% oil solution or water emulsion; or 5% dust. German cockroaches have developed resistance; controls other kinds.

(3) Diazinon: 0.5% oil solution or water emulsion; or 1% dust - controls German cockroaches as well as other kinds.

as other kinds.

(4) Dursban: 0.5% oil solution or water emulsion; controls German cockroaches as well as other kinds.

(5) Malathion: 2 to 3% oil solution or water emulsion; or 5% dust; controls German cockroaches as well as other kinds, however, German cockroaches have shown resistance in some areas.

Make sure when applying the above chemicals that you use a type sprayer that will give you effective coating of all the areas being sprayed.

If you are having problems outdoors with roaches, dusts containing 5 to 10% chlordane may be applied around the outside of the house, around porches and in flower beds around the house.

Many of our commercial pest control companies have services available on a regular interval to treat your home for roaches and other insect pests in the home. Many people who are unable to spray or do not have the time to spray regularly will find these services very worthwhile.

Bob Johnson is in county race

Bob Johnson has announced his candidacy for a third term on the Palm Beach County Commission. Johnson officially filed for the District Three seat on July 6, the first day of the filing period.

The 63 year old Republican was first elected to the commission in 1969. He was mayor of Lake Worth from 1967-69, and has a background in manufacturing, sales, advertising, retailing, insurance and investment securities.

While serving on the commission, Johnson spearheaded efforts to widen Lake Worth Forest, Forest Hill Boulevard and PGA Boulevard and has vowed to oppose any increases in gasoline taxes.

He also opposes building a new $25 million county courthouse, and believes that the commission should meet in different areas of the county so the citizens can more easily attend sessions.

Social Chatter

By Maude Vereen

During the summer, when vacation time rolls around, one may be in for a great surprise, especially a surprise visit from friends or relatives.

Mrs. Rosa Lee Walker was in for such a surprise last week when a handsome young man knocked on her door and acknowledged that he was her nephew, Richard Floyd of Detroit, Mich. and he brought his family to visit his aunt and other relatives and friends in the area.

Officer Henry Jones of Belle Glade Police Department has just returned home having a wonderful vacation. He informed me that he and his family went to the Keys for some deep sea fishing but didn't have much luck. They then motored to Orlando where they had a grand time horse back riding and then back home to return to work.

Mrs. Ola Ross of Cleveland, Ohio is visiting her son, James Slater and family here and other relatives and friends. Mrs. Ross attended church Sunday with her son at the Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church and told me that she lived here before moving to Cleveland and is looking forward to having a good time while here.

Mrs. Rosa Stevenson and the Negative group of the Stewardess Board #2 gave the Positive group a banquet at the Mt. Zion A.M.E. Dining Room Saturday night. Mrs. Margaret Poole was the mistress of ceremonies and Mrs. Harvey Poole Sr. was the speaker.

Mrs. Poole's message was "Working Together" and he made some observations about the different boards and clubs of our church, of what could happen if everyone could get on one accord and work together. He commended the ladies of this banquet for getting it together. The president, Mrs. Stevenson, presented and pinned on the winner, Mrs. Maude Vereen, a lovely blue and white corsage and presented Mrs. Hattie Bain with a flower arrangement at the end of the program. They served baked ham, roast beef, macaroni salad, string beans, sliced tomato, relish dish, German chocolate cake, pound cake, asparagus with cream cheese and punch. The Rev. Charles Robinson made remarks.

Mrs. Irene Vereen Salmon has been admitted to Everglades Memorial Hospital Room 204 in Pahokee and wishes your prayers for a speedy recovery.

Little Miss Vota Scott of Hallendale is spending the week with Miss Valerie Vereen and is having a ball with Darian "Peanut" Morris.

Ms. Eloise Marshall is attending the convention in Atlanta, Ga. for this week and at the same time her children are having a vacation in Jacksonville with their aunt, Carol Brown. Ms. Brown is Ms. Marshall's sister.

"THOUGHT" Pass it on "A smile" Don't keep it to yourself. Please pass it on to the next person you meet.

on the CONSUMERS' SIDE

QUESTION: How many home accidents are associated with TV sets each year? My children watch a great deal of TV unattended and I wanted to know how harmful this could be.

ANSWER: The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission reports that there are approximately 10,000 accidents related to television fires and shocks each year. The major accident patterns associated with TV sets include:

1. Electrical problems within the TV set.
2. Covering the ventilation openings by putting the TV set too close to the wall, radiator, or piece of furniture. (Excessive heat builds up within the cabinet and starts the fire.)
3. Electrical shock (which occurs when people touch parts inside the set which carry hazardous voltages).

Television sets are not necessarily dangerous with proper use and care. And one brand should not differ significantly from another in regard to safety. Keep the following things in mind, though, when purchasing, using or maintaining a set.

-Be aware that the "instant-on" feature has been suspected of causing some TV fires. If you do not desire this feature, don't buy a TV set with "instant-on" or buy one which has an "instant-on" feature which can be switched to the off position.

-Be aware that many TV-related fire incidents have involved portable color TVs with plastic cabinets. -Always turn the TV off if it is necessary to leave the room for more than a short period of time. Never leave a TV on when leaving the house. Unplug the TV from the wall outlet and disconnect the external antenna lead-in wires at the TV set when you leave on vacation. This will prevent a possible TV fire hazard which may develop due to lightning storms.

-Don't cover the ventilation openings in the TV with cloth or papers, or by placing the set close to a wall or piece of furniture; this can cause heat to build up inside the TV cabinet and cause a fire.

-Don't put containers of water or other liquids on the TV cabinet because these can spill and cause short circuits which can create fire and shock hazards.

-If abnormally loud or continuous snapping or popping noises are made by the set, unplug the TV and consult your dealer or service technician.

-If your TV power cord has been subjected to numerous flexings because of plugging into and unplugging from the wall outlet, have the cord checked by a service technician for possible replacement.

-If a fire does start-pull the plug immediately to disconnect the electrical circuit. Call the fire department, and if you have a dry chemical fire extinguisher, attempt to put out the fire. However, don't use water to extinguish the fire because you could get an electrical shock.

If two drinking glasses are stuck, one inside the other, fill the inner glass with cold water and the outer with hot. They will come apart easily and unbroken.

consult those specialists that can "see" our future in a crystal ball. Others of us will have our palms read or have the future foretold from a deck of cards. Yet others try to plan their lives according to the planetary movements. Just how valid any of these methods are is open to debate. But one thing is sure, the idea of "seeing" into the future appeals to almost everyone.

But what does the future hold for us as a nation? Many of us assume that because we have always been a strong nation, we are now a strong nation and will continue to be a strong nation, regardless of what we do or do not do, individually. Strong nations, however, have declined into obscurity and have been overtaken by other nations, so we can

Funeral services held for Mrs. Lettie E. Simmons in Pahokee

Funeral services were held for Lettie E. Simmons, 84, of 1331 N.W. Ave. 1, July 29 at the Wetherington Funeral Home Chapel in Pahokee with the Rev. Bob Atkins officiating.

Mrs. Simmons was a native of Milledgeville, Ga. and has been a resident of Belle Glade for the past four years. She was also a long time resident of Okeechobee. She died July 27, following a long illness. She was a member of the Baptist Church. Survivors include two sons, Jim Simmons of Okeechobee and William "Labe" Simmons of Cape Coral; two daughters, Mrs. Mattie L. Cowart and Mrs.

Mary Royals, both of Belle Glade, 13 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery in Okeechobee. Wetherington Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors in the Lewis Trailer Park for their kindness and sympathy shown during the long illness and death of our mother and grandfather, Mrs. Dora Mayble.

My New Day

This sunrise is created by Thee, O Lord,
With the sky all rose and gold,
Hails a bright new day never lived before,
A day only one hour old;
With its golden hours untarnished,
Tis a treasure-trove for me;
A day to live and love and serve,
A gift to return to Thee.

A chopper goes to church.....

Looka here, gang, it's a chopper and it's got "SHERIFF" written on it! The kids at the Belle Glade Alliance Church Vacation Bible School were treated to a good look at Palm Beach County Sheriff William Heidman's helicopter and what it's used for when it's as well as the Belle Glade rescue wagon visited the church. And if somebody doesn't think kids are still interested in flying, look at them flying to meet it (below) after it landed. A total of 150 children are enrolled at the Bible School.
